What every learner gets

Interactive lessons guided by Lio, Plio's AI learning-companion mascot, organized into four age tiers: Explorer (5–8), Builder (9–12), Innovator (13–17) and Practitioner (adult/advanced). Subjects span AI literacy, mathematics, physics, computer graphics and digital citizenship [1]. Every student profile is guardian-managed — children never create their own account.

Founder

Founded by Princess Aguila — a software engineer from Las Vegas who comes from two generations of teachers. After watching the kids in her life ask questions about AI that most classrooms weren't ready to answer, she set out to build the resource she wished existed: free, self-paced, and rigorous enough for the next generation to actually shape the technology, not just consume it. She is the author of the complete Plio Academy curriculum. Plio is where her family's calling and her career meet. AI literacy should be a right, not a privilege.

Safety commitments

- COPPA-compliant by design. Children under 13 never create their own account; a guardian manages the whole process.
- No ads, ever. There is no advertising business model and nothing to sell to families.
- No third-party tracking on student pages. Pages where a child is learning load no third-party analytics or ad scripts.
- Cookieless analytics on the public site. The marketing site uses Plausible, a cookie-free tool that does not identify individuals, and it is fully excluded from learning pages.
